

Montana Migratory Bird Stamp Art Contest | MONTANA FWP

The annual Montana Migratory Bird Stamp Art Contest helps Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks and partners bring attention to the importance of wetlands and their associated upland habitats to wildlife, landowners, and communities across the state. The winning artwork will be featured on promotional items including commemorative stickers, a print, and other digital products designed to promote wetland conservation and restoration in Montana. Each year about 35,000 hunters purchase a Montana Migratory Bird License. In 2025 each of these hunters will receive a decal and postcard with the 2025 Montana Migratory Bird Stamp design. The sale of other promotional items will help fund wetland restoration and conservation efforts across Montana.

Winning Entry and Rights:

The winning entry becomes the shared property of the artist and Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks. FWP shall retain all reproduction rights of the winning entry for two years. The original artwork shall remain the sole property of the artist, and will be returned to the artist within 6 months of the conclusion of the contest. Limited edition prints of the winning art will be signed by the artist and available for purchase from the Montana's Outdoor Legacy Foundation with all proceeds going toward wetland conservation in Montana. Any refusal of the winning artist to sign the release, to challenge the rules or regulations concerning release of rights, or otherwise take any action that would delay the reproduction of the art as a state migratory bird stamp and or any related use, shall be grounds for that art being disqualified for payment of purchase award and use of the design for the state migratory bird stamp or other related usage. In the event a disqualification should occur, the art receiving the next highest number of points in the voting shall be then declared the winner and shall be used to reproduce the state waterfowl stamp and/or promotional items. The winner artwork will appear in an issue of Montana Outdoors magazine.
